

Edupop Manifesto

We do believe in technology, because we do believe in individuals. And that's why we think our struggle is over the future of technology and over the way we manage with it, it is over the struggle for the future of our culture that is assailed from all corners by the punk way of thinking. Technology and knowledge must be free to share, sell or use in order to give away ideas, innovations and visions. So we will receive whatever is shared, sold or gave away in return.

We live in a connective world where culture and knowledge is everywhere, and individuals must be free to do as they want in it.

Look for the perfect melody
Enter the free stage: EDUPOP!

David Vidal | Emilio Quintana
The Language Learning Factory
www.languagelearningfactory.com

Illustration:
Prrofesor Potâchov
<http://arrukero.com/potachov/blog>